

Press Release, 8th of September 2011

PAF plans the last tango under Hitler's highway

The Festival of film animation reviews its summer programme. The concerts of Table and Ink Midget & Pjoni visually accompanied by VJ Kolouch and Věra Lukášová in Ostopovice near Brno will be the last seasonal open air parties.

The summer season of the Festival of film animation culminates on Saturday, 10th of September in the last stop under the bridge of incomplete imperial highway Breslau-Wien in Ostopovice near Brno. After participation in various summer festivals such as Fest Anča in Žilina, Slovakia, Luhovaný Vincent in Luhačovice and Summer Film School in Uherské Hradiště, PAF decided to organize independent, mainly musical open air happening in close collaboration with Tungstram Café that offers the most delicious coffee and sweets all over the world.

Besides video-projections, the open air concerts of Table and Ink Midget & Pjoni visually accompanied by VJ Kolouch and Věra Lukášová will take place. The night disco for insomniacs will follow. At this somewhat bizarre place, known also as Hitler's highway, Tungstram Café opens its brand new yurt that is to become a shelter for all visitors because of its family atmosphere and selection of delicacies. Martin Mazanec says: "Ostopovice will be an imaginary balance of our PAF summer. It is no coincidence that we invited the bands that we produce and the artists who we intensively and in the long term collaborate with. We would like to interpret the evening as the last summer PAF party, so we are looking forward to everyone who will be able to come."

More information about the last open air PAF and Tungstram Café party can be found on PAF websites and on Facebook. The party begins at 7 pm. Ostopovice Branky station is reachable by Brno public transport; then by walk through Krátká Street (ca. 500 m)

The event is organized by PAF, Pastiche Filmz, Tungstram Café, Visegrad Fund, Ostopovice.

Contact:

Michaela Hečková

PR and communication

420 732 972 007

michaela@pifpaf.cz

Festival of Film Animation.:

www.pifpaf.cz

www.facebook.com/PAFOlomouc