

PAF AT THE END OF SUMMER

Ostopovice near Brno | 12 September 2015

3rd biennial of the PAF—Festival of Film Animation

At the end of summer PAF returns under the abandoned bridge of Hitler's dreamt-of highway. On Saturday, 12th of September, ten Czech and Slovak musicians, visual artists and performers will be introduced at the musical biennial in Ostopovice near Brno.

The artists, who will be presented in a unique space among monumental fragments of bridge construction, include Ondřej Holý, alias dné, who will introduce a selection from his latest album, Dominik Gajarský from the Palermo band with his solo project Slowmotiondancer, two electronic innovators from Bratislava—Ink Midget and Isama Zing, and the painter Daniel Vlček with his BA:ZEL. A member of Lightning Glove from Prague—Dizzcock—will cooperate with VJ Kolouch; the audio-visual component will also be an integral part of other concerts.

The programme also involves “moving images” from Other Visions, audio-visual works from the PAF section of the same name, which is focused on works on the boundaries of animation, experimental film, visual arts and video art.

Refreshments will be available at Café Tungstram's mobile yurt as in the previous two years.

Transport will be operated by public transport, both during the day and at night. Ostopovice, Branky station is about 25 minutes from Brno central station (tram no. 8, change on Osový station to buses no. 403 or 404, then proceed about 500 m through Krátká Street; the route will be marked from the station). Those who decide to stay overnight may camp in the grounds.

In the case of unfavourable weather the event will be relocated. More details and up-to-date information on www.pifpaf.cz/ostopovice.
